River Tamar

Marjorie Barge's Travel Networks

Separates Cornwall from Devon along most of the river. It's source is just 4 miles from the north coast, but it flows southwards to Plymouth. Great Salmon fishing.

In 1645 Cornish Royalist leader Sir Richard Grenville instructed his troops to line up along the River Tamar and keep "all foreign troops out of Cornwall".

It is said that the Devil won't cross the River Tamar for fear of being put into a pasty!
